London Zoo is the world's oldest scientific zoo. It was opened in London on 27 April 1828, and was originally intended to be used as a collection for scientific study. In 1831 or 1832, the animals of the Tower of London menagerie were transferred to the zoo's collection. It was eventually opened to the public in 1847. Today, it houses a collection of 673 species of animals, with 19,289 ...

During breakfast, I imagined Lawrence Durrell sitting at the next table, eating his boiled eggs. (For a while the author worked in Cairo as a public information officer for the British embassy.) The hotel is in Zamelek, an island in the Nile across from central Cairo - a ' smart ' residential enclave, where wealthy Egyptians live in modern flats or apartments in 19th century villas.
