I-SPY. Costing just sixpence (6D) in pre-decimalised Britain, the I-SPY Road Transport book would have been a fun book to own in 1961, when children seemed to have much simpler pleasures than today. The I-SPY books were created to keep children occupied, whenever that need arose - whether on holiday or during a car journey, many the child that kept themselves busy trying to spot examples of items that featured in the book.

7. I Spy. The road trip classic. One person says "I spy with my little eye" something and then vaguely describes something they see, like "I spy something red". The other players take turn asking yes or no questions until they can guess what the item is. 8. Story. One person says a word that begins a story.
